3.1. Supervisory activities in the first six months of 2026

The first six months of 2026 witnessed the most significant volatility in the global petroleum market in recent years. Geopolitical competition among major powers continued to intensify, while the conflict involving the United States, Israel and Iran disrupted crude oil transportation through the Strait of Hormuz, causing disturbances and interruptions to global crude oil supply. Prices of crude oil and refined petroleum products fluctuated sharply with a wide trading range. Meanwhile, the global energy sector continued to undergo profound transformation, driven by the energy transition, the development of green fuels, and increasingly stringent greenhouse gas emission reduction requirements.

Domestically, the Government remained steadfast in pursuing its objectives of maintaining macroeconomic stability, controlling inflation, promoting economic growth, safeguarding national energy security, and fulfilling its commitments to green and sustainable development.

Against this backdrop, the Board of Directors identified ensuring a stable supply of petroleum products to the Corporation's distribution network as its foremost priority, thereby contributing to the safeguarding of national energy security. At the same time, the Board closely monitored market developments and issued timely resolutions and directives, providing guidance and support to the Management Board in steering the Corporation's operations through the period of heightened market volatility:

- Production and Business: directed, urged and closely supervised the implementation of the Corporation's business plan for the first six months of 2026; explored new growth drivers to sustain business expansion; and focused on analyzing and forecasting global crude oil price movements, leveraging the strengths of the integrated petroleum value chain to ensure an adequate supply of petroleum products to the domestic market. In particular, amid the impacts of the conflict in the Middle East and in performing the tasks assigned by the Government and Petrovietnam, the Board of Directors instructed PVOIL to study and coordinate with relevant parties in working with partners to implement solutions for securing crude oil supplies for the two domestic oil refineries. The Board also directed the Corporation to shift from a reactive approach to a proactive approach in petroleum supply management, while maintaining flexible business operations to prevent any disruption to fuel supply. Effective from 15 May 2026, the Corporation officially commenced the nationwide commercial distribution of E10 gasoline across its entire distribution network.

- Financial Management and Debt Oversight: directed and supervised measures to maintain the sound financial position of the PVOIL system amid significant volatility in crude oil prices and import costs. It also strengthened the management of cash flows, working capital and inventories to mitigate price fluctuation risks, while overseeing and evaluating the efficiency of the Corporation's investments in external enterprises.

- Investment and Construction: directed and supervised the accelerated implementation of investment projects for construction, upgrading, maintenance and repair in accordance with the 2026 investment plan. It also urged the timely execution of projects carried forward from the previous year and oversaw investments in infrastructure to support the Jet A-1 aviation fuel business at Noi Bai International Airport, Tan Son Nhat International Airport and other airports.
