III. ACCOUNTING STANDARDS AND ACCOUNTING SYSTEM

The Company's financial statements are prepared and presented in accordance with the provisions of Vietnam Accounting Standards, the Corporate Accounting Regime and relevant legal regulations.

IV. ACCOUNTING POLICIES, ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES AND RELEVANT APPLICABLE LAWS

1. Foreign currency transactions

Transactions denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Vietnamese Dong using the exchange rates prevailing at the transaction dates.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the reporting date using:

- The average transfer buying/selling rates of the commercial bank where the Company regularly transacts (for assets and liabilities);
- The actual transaction rate at the revaluation date (for asset revaluation).

Exchange differences arising during the period and on retranslation at the reporting date are recognised in profit or loss.

2. Principles of accounting for cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand, demand deposits and short-term investments with original maturities of three months or less, which are highly liquid and readily convertible into known amounts of cash and subject to insignificant risk of changes in value.

3. Financial investments

Held-to-maturity investments

Held-to-maturity investments represent investments that the Company has the intention and ability to hold to maturity, mainly term deposits at banks.

These investments are initially recognised at cost including transaction costs. Interest income is recognised on an accrual basis in profit or loss. Any interest accrued prior to acquisition is deducted from the carrying amount.

These investments are subsequently measured at cost less allowance for doubtful receivables.

4. Receivables

Receivables represent amounts due from customers and other parties and are stated at carrying amount less allowance for doubtful debts.

Allowance is made for overdue receivables or receivables where debtors are unlikely to settle due to liquidation, bankruptcy or similar financial difficulties.

5. Inventories

Inventories are assets held for use in production or for sale in the ordinary course of business.

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value (NRV). Cost includes purchase cost, conversion cost and other directly attributable costs.

- Costing method: weighted average method (monthly)
- NRV: estimated selling price less costs to complete and selling expenses

Work in progress is accumulated by project for unfinished contracts.

Inventories are accounted for using the perpetual method.

Inventory write-down is recognised when cost exceeds NRV.

6. Accounting policies for property, plant and equipment and intangible assets

Property, plant and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation.

The cost of property, plant and equipment acquired comprises the purchase price and all directly attributable costs necessary to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating as intended.

For property, plant and equipment constructed under contracts or self-constructed, cost represents the final settlement value of the construction works in accordance with prevailing regulations on investment and construction management, together with other directly attributable costs and registration fees (if any).

Where projects have been completed and put into use but final settlement has not yet been approved, the cost of property, plant and equipment is initially recognised at provisional amounts based on actual costs incurred. Such provisional amounts are subsequently adjusted to the approved final settlement amounts issued by the competent authorities.

Property, plant and equipment are depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives as follows:

|                                     | Useful life (years) |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| Buildings and structures            | 5 – 40                     |
| Machinery and equipment             | 3 – 8                      |
| Office equipment                    | 3 – 5                      |
| Vehicles                            | 5 – 15                     |
| Assets funded by non-business funds | 2 – 7                      |
| Others                              | 3 - 10                     |

Leases

A lease is classified as an operating lease when the lessor retains substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of the leased asset.

Operating lease income is recognised on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

Operating lease expenses are recognised in the statement of profit or loss on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

Intangible assets and amortisation

Intangible assets comprise computer software and ship design software funded by non-business funds and are stated at cost less accumulated amortisation.

Computer software and ship design software that are not an integral part of the related hardware are capitalised and accounted for as intangible assets.

Computer software and ship design software are amortised on a straight-line basis over a period of 3 to 5 years.

7. Accounting policies for prepayments

Prepayments comprise expenses that have been incurred but relate to the results of operations of multiple accounting periods. Prepayments include prepaid land rental and other prepaid expenses.

Prepaid land rental is amortised to the statement of profit or loss on a straight-line basis over the land lease term of 47 years.

Other prepayments include land filling costs and tools and equipment, which are considered to generate future economic benefits to the Company for a period exceeding one year. These costs are capitalised as prepayments and amortised to the statement of profit or loss on a straight-line basis in accordance with prevailing accounting regulations.

8. Accounting policies for payables

Criteria for classification of payables:

- Trade payables represent amounts payable of a commercial nature arising from transactions for the purchase of goods, services and assets. Trade payables also include amounts payable arising from imports through entrusted parties.
- Other payables represent all remaining payables that are not classified as trade payables or intercompany payables.

Payables are accounted for in detail by each counterparty and by the nature of the obligation, with detailed tracking of payment terms and original currencies.

Payables with a remaining maturity of less than 12 months (or within one operating cycle) at the reporting date are classified as current liabilities; all other payables are classified as non-current liabilities. At the reporting date, payables are reclassified in accordance with this principle.

The Company remeasures trade payables denominated in foreign currencies at each reporting date. The exchange rate applied for remeasurement is the selling exchange rate of the commercial bank where the Company designates customers to make payments, or the bank with which the Company regularly transacts, at the reporting date.

The Company recognizes a liability immediately when there is evidence indicating that an obligation is probable to result in an outflow of economic benefits, in accordance with the prudence principle. Liabilities are not recognized at an amount lower than the present obligation required to be settled. Provisions for liabilities are recognized at the reporting date in compliance with prevailing regulations.

9. Accounting policies for accrued expenses

Accrued expenses reflect amounts payable for goods and services that have been received from suppliers or provided to customers but have not yet been paid due to the absence of invoices or incomplete supporting accounting documentation. Such amounts are recognized as expenses in the statement of profit or loss on the basis of the matching principle between revenues and expenses.

When sufficient supporting documentation becomes available, any differences between the accrued amounts and the actual amounts are adjusted accordingly, with additional expenses recognized or previously recognized expenses reversed to reflect such differences.

10. Accounting policies and methods for revenue recognition

Revenue from rendering of services

Revenue from rendering of services is recognized when the outcome of the transaction can be measured reliably. Where services are rendered over multiple accounting periods, revenue is recognized in each period based on the stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date. The outcome of a service transaction can be reliably measured when all of the following conditions are satisfied:

- Revenue can be measured reliably;
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the Company;
- The stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date can be measured reliably;
- and
- The costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction can be measured reliably.

Construction contract revenue

Revenue from construction contracts is recognized when the outcome of the contract can be measured reliably and is confirmed by the customer. Revenue and related costs are recognized by reference to the stage of completion of the contract work performed during the period, as reflected in the invoices issued.

Financial income

Financial income comprises interest income from bank deposits and foreign exchange gains. Interest income is recognized based on monthly bank interest statements. Foreign exchange gains are recognized from exchange rate differences arising from transactions denominated in foreign currencies.

11. Accounting policies for cost of sales

Upon recognition of revenue, the corresponding costs (cost of sales) directly attributable to generating such revenue are recognized simultaneously, in accordance with the matching principle.

Cost of sales includes costs incurred in the current period to generate revenue, as well as costs incurred in prior periods or accrued expenses that are directly related to the revenue recognized in the period.

12. Accounting policies for finance costs

Finance costs include borrowing costs (interest expense on loans and borrowings) and foreign exchange losses arising from transactions denominated in foreign currencies.

These expenses are recognized on a gross basis based on total amounts incurred during the period and are not offset against financial income.

13. Accounting policies for general and administrative expenses

General and administrative expenses represent the Company's overall operating overheads, including salaries and employee benefits (such as insurance contributions) of administrative personnel, depreciation of fixed assets used for corporate management purposes, land lease expenses, business license tax, allowance for doubtful receivables, and outsourced services supporting the Company's administrative functions.

14. Accounting policies for current corporate income tax

Current corporate income tax expense is determined based on taxable income and the applicable corporate income tax rate for the current year.

The determination of the Company's corporate income tax is based on prevailing tax regulations. However, these regulations are subject to changes from time to time, and the final tax position may be subject to review and assessment by the competent tax authorities.

Other taxes are applied in accordance with the prevailing tax laws in Vietnam.
